

Recommendation Letter – Jiale Ren

To whom it may concern,

I am pleased to recommend Jiale, who completed her internship in Data Analytics at ASML under my supervision. Throughout her internship, she demonstrated strong technical growth, professionalism, and a clear learning mindset.

At the start of her internship, Jiale focused on understanding our data sources, tools, and analytical methods. Over time, she showed clear progress in structuring analyses, improving data quality, and delivering more insightful and reliable results. By the end of her internship, she was able to work more independently and proactively propose improvements to existing analyses.

A notable area of growth was her communication with stakeholders. While this was initially a learning area, Jiale made strong progress in explaining her work, discussing requirements, and presenting insights in a clear and structured way. She became increasingly confident in interacting with both technical and non-technical stakeholders.

Jiale is well-organized, receptive to feedback, and consistently eager to learn, which allowed her to develop quickly during her time at ASML.

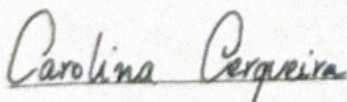

I am confident that Jiale will be a valuable addition to any organization or academic program in the field of data analytics.

Kind regards,

Carolina Cerqueira
